W. H. Powers has again resumed control of the Carter county "Current Local," and the paper presents a decidedly better appearance.

Scott county's enterprising citizens are very much elated by the prospect of a railroad from Sikeston, through Benton, to Cape Girardeau. Hope they'll get it.

The Methodist College which was advertised to be located in the county of this section offering the best inducements has been located at Charleston and the erection of the same will be early begun.

"Shannon County Appeal" is the title of a neat and spicy seven-column paper recently started at Winona, Mo., by J. W. & R. L. Mabrey, published by John F. Winchester ("Wandering John," we believe) and shows a liberal advertising patronage. Right gladly, we X with it.

The New Era Exposition of St. Joseph, Miss., offers a premium of $500 for the best twelve ears of corn grown in the state this year. This premium is worth contending for and we trust that some of our farmers will endeavor to capture it. Full shipping directions can be obtained at this office.

A new style of postal cards is being prepared for early introduction into use. There will be three varieties. One much like the present, only on better paper and with a finer finish; another much the same in appearance, but larger, and intended more for business uses, and the third a delicate little card for ladies' correspondence.—Charleston Enterprise.

Buchmann, the merchant king of Cape Girardeau, will quit the merchandise business in a few weeks. He has been forced to this by reason of his failing health. He thinks that after a few months rest and recuperation that his health will be sufficiently restored for him to engage in the real estate business or something else which will give him more outdoor exercise.

Henry Shaw, the founder of Tower Grove Park and the Missouri Botanical Gardens, died at his home in St. Louis on the 25, in the 59th year of his age. Mr. Shaw was well educated and came of a refined and wealthy family. His father established him in the hardware business in St. Louis in 1820, when Mr. Shaw was 20 years of age. He retired from business when 40 years old with what was fortune in those days. His gifts to benevolent institutions have been many and large and his name is a familiar one on the two hemispheres. He was very wealthy when he died.

The Scott county Newsboy is authority for the statement that a Poplar Bluff lawyer went before a justice of the peace to bring a divorce suit.

This is probably the result of imprudent associations. Poplar Bluff, you know, joins Arkansas. Well, an Arkansas attorney, upon being applied to by a citizen to take charge of a case, told his prospective client that if he (the client) would furnish the evidence that he (the attorney) would agree to win the case for fifteen dollars; but if he (the lawyer) must furnish the evidence he would have to charge twenty-five dollars to win the case.

Presiding Judge Zimmerman and County Clerk Wells have both expressed, to us, their intention of not signing a county warrant for any one or any purpose on the allowance made for the current expenses of this year after said allowance shall have been exhausted. Their action in this is strict conformity to our Statutes. Such has been the law for some years, but it has not been adhered to, notwithstanding it should have been. Mr. Wells' books show that warrants to date have been issued on this year's allowance to the amount of $6,447.16. This leaves a balance of about $1,500, yet to be drawn upon. After warrants for this amount have been issued, no more will be issued on this year's allowance, and indebtedness created afterwards will have to go over until 1890.

Editor-Brig of the Farmington "News" has abandoned his old channel and plunged pell-mell into politics and family groceries.

Tanner continues to render himself more unpopular with the Administration, and it now looks like only a question of time until he is removed. Tanner is simply carrying out his primitive and expressed views, keeping faith with his promises, but this Mr. Harrison deprecates, in as much as he has failed to do the same thing himself.

It is believed that political considerations will force an extra session of the Fifty-first Congress. The Democrats are unanimous in the belief there exists no necessity for an extra session, and a great many shrewd Republicans admit as much, but it is presumed that the desire of Quay, Clarkson, McKinley and others will prevail, and that an extra session will be called.

The appointment of Jasper N. Burks as Grain Inspector has called out some criticism from a few kid-gloved papers which were nursing pets for the position. We do not know what Mr. Burks' qualifications for this position are, and we assume that the aforesaid papers do not, neither, and that his qualification are ten to one above the kidded gentry who criticize the appointment, and cannot distinguish rye from oats.

The complete returns from the recent election in Kentucky show that the Democrats have gained about 17,000, and the Republicans about 2,000, votes since the election of 1887. A clear gain to the Democrats, of about 15,000; great "Southern Outrage," this. Cleveland's majority was something over 28,000. The Democratic majority this year is 36,000. A clear Democratic gain of 8,000.

The desperate Michigan robber, Holzhey, has been captured and is now in the hands of the law. He is the same man who startled the northwest about two months ago by going singlehanded through a train on the Milwaukee and Northern railroad and levied tribute on a score or more of passengers; and who, a few weeks later, rode up to a store in a small county place and at the muzzle of his revolver compelled the proprietor to give up the contents of his safe, and who, still later, went through the passengers on a Wisconsin Central railway. He is described as a small, sallow-complexioned man.

Our esteemed contemporary, the "Ironton Register," labors under the misapprehension that because our County Court did not draw a petit jury our term of Circuit Court will not be a legal one, and asks "Will you please tell us how the County Court can do that?" according to law.

What our erudite brother evidently meant to ask was, How can the County Court do that contrary to law? We will state, for our good brother's information, that the Statute in regard to the County Court selecting a petit jury is merely directory—not mandatory, and a failure upon part of the County Court to issue the venire works no violation of law, but lodges the duty upon the Circuit Judge who issues a venire to the Sheriff. This is how the County Court can do that "according to law," and we think it an economical move.

Without a peer in the Great West to-day stands the "Missouri Republican." Established in 1808, it, like old wine, improves with age. As an exponent of American liberty, the citizen's rights and country's welfare, it is as bold and fearless as it is true and conscientious. Its war upon trusts, monopolies and unjust tariff taxes is as unrelenting as the cause which it espouses is just and meritorious.

The "Republican" has recently made rapid and progressive strides in its every department. Finding its present press power insufficient to supply the demands of its greatly increasing circulation the "Republican" management has ordered two new presses which are to cost $40,000 each. These presses will have an aggregate running speed per hour of 96,000 four and six-page sheets, 72,000 eight-page, 48,000 ten and twelve-page, and 24,000 sixteen, twenty and twenty-four-page sheets. These presses will be the finest in the West, and, with one single exception, the finest ever shipped west of New York and Philadelphia.

If you desire this great newspaper, call and leave your name at the Kansas office, or send direct to "Republican" office, St. Louis, Mo.

One Carlisle Graham accomplished the foolhardy feat of going safely over the Niagara Falls on the 1st, in a barrel which he had constructed for the perilous trip. He was unconscious when taken out, but revived in a short time and is now all right.

Senator Vest has been spending several days in Montana. He says that the Democrats will sweep the state by a 5,000 majority.

Monday's Souvenir Exposition Number of the "Republican" prepared especially for the convenience and information of the many thousands who will visit the St. Louis Exposition and Fair is a grand newspaper effort and totally eclipsed all other St. Louis dailies. Grand new old "Republican!"

To the Kennett Clipper: We never charged our memory with the number of, or the names of the parties in, the case, but it was one which arose in a Probate Court, on the sale of realty. The Statute requiring a publication of four weeks, it was held to be necessary that there be five insertions. It was not the Supreme Court, but the Court of Appeals held at Kansas City.

The negroes near Greenwood, Mississippi, gathered in vast numbers on the 1st with expressed determination of destroying many white people and their homes. The blacks were repulsed, however, and fifteen of their number slain. As they outnumber the whites about ten to one, in that county, further trouble is hourly expected. All this trouble has been brought about by hired carpetbaggers sent from the North for the one purpose of creating trouble, so as to manufacture political capital for the present dominant party. But the scheme is a gaudy one and is likely to work woe to its progenitors.

One of, if not the greatest strikes in history is now on in London, which is now virtually an inland town and promises to remain such unless the demands of the laborers are conceded. All communication from the rest of the world by water is completely cut off. The great ships lying at the docks can neither load nor discharge their cargoes, and the immense traffic of the greatest city in the world lies at the mercy of the wage workers and dock directors. The former asking for, and the latter refusing to grant, an increase in wages. There are now more than 100,000 men in the strike at London, and every moment a manifest is anticipated which will call out all trades unionists. Should this be done, there will be a commercial stagnation in England, and shuddering consequences expected. The English press is almost united in pronouncing the demands of the strikers as just and reasonable, and denouncing the action of the dock directors as selfish and unreasonable.

The workingman is the life and blood of every country; and we hope the day is not far distant when capital will suffer a decided defeat at the hands of labor. It should be a secondary, and not a primary, power as it now assumes to be. It certainly is only a question of time, and when that time comes it will only be a repetition of a history, which is better known to Londoners than to any others.

Glen Allen Mo., July 19, 1889.—[Editor of the Press]—The following resolutions were adopted by the Co. F. A. and a copy of same ordered sent to you with the request that you publish same.

John P. McManus, Co. Secy.

To the officers and members of Bolinger Co. F. A. in session with Liberty Alliance:

Whereas: There has been an opinion rendered by the Attorney General of this state, that it was against the law of the state to hold secret organizations in the public schoolhouses of the state and.

Whereas: The general opinion of sub Alliance is to hold their meetings in their respective schoolhouses. Therefore be it resolved.

That the members of the Alliance throughout the county will stand firm by any Sub Alliance that may get in any difficulty by meeting in their schoolhouses in opposition to the opinion of said attorney General; and further.

Resolved—That our state delegate be instructed to introduce similar resolutions for the state Alliance to stand firm to the Alliance all over the state in same manner.—This July 19, 1889.

NOTICE TO WHEELERS OF BOLINGER COUNTY, MO.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the County Wheel at Marble Hill, Mo., August 24th, 1889, it was decided to hold the annual meeting with Greenwood Wheel, four miles northeast of Bolinger Mills, instead of Sylvan Wheel, on the third Wednesday in September, at 10 o'clock a. m. And in compliance with that decision, I, Monroe Hindman, by the power and authority vested in me as County President, do hereby order the change of time and place. Sub-Wheels are requested to forward their proper credentials. Presidents and Secretaries are requested to be careful in preparing credentials. Let the statements of dues or respond with the members in good standing, as it is necessary to a compliance with the by-laws, and also to get the numerical strength of said body.

MONROE HINDMAN,
Pres't. Bolinger County A. W. Bollinger Mills, Mo., August 24th, 1889.

Health is only tolerable.

A. F. and J. A. Lutes attended church at Cole's Chapel last Sunday.

Wash Robbins cut his foot very severely while cleaning fence corners.

The public school in this district begins to-day (Monday) J. A. Lutes as teacher.

Several persons from this neighborhood attended the Baptist Association at Brush Creek. We have been having some very dry weather for a couple of weeks; but there is some prospect of rain now.

In week before last issue of the Press you stated that Bolinger county can beat the world raising beets. You might add that it can at least equal it in raising fruit, and we think this neighborhood can equal any in the county. As specimens of the products of our section we give the following: John H. Grader raised a peach measuring over ten inches in circumference.

Jesse B. Lutes has two pears, one measuring 12 inches and the other 12 1/2 inches in circumference, and six weighing together five pounds.

PUBLIC AUCTION: Remember the Public Auction at Lutesville, Saturdays, where there is over $1200 worth goods. Such as shoes, boots, clothing, notions, tobacco &c., to be sold; and on other days these goods will be sold at retail for less than cost.

The Largest Peach Orchard in the World.

It having been announced in the Index that a party of fruit growers from Kansas City would visit the Olden Fruit Farm, Tuesday, the 20th, a few of our citizens decided to join them in a day's pleasure and invite them to spend a day in Willow Springs. Accordingly a little party of twenty-two, and the chief guide of the Index, boarded the 7:30 train for the fruit farm. As it hardly had time to get settled in our seats before the train slowed up and the familiar voice of Harry Haines, the faithful conductor who ran the first train over the Memphis extension of the Gulf, cried out "Olden Fruit Farm."

We then learned to the regret of all that the Kansas City excursionists had failed to put in their appearance.

Mr. G. W. Gano, the genial and business-like superintendent of the farm, informed us that business was too rushing to permit him to spend the day with us, but did us a hearty welcome to the farm and its fruits, and the little party soon took formal possession of the domain.

When the party arrived at a fifty acre lot of peaches that had not been picked, the screams and shouts of delight were almost deafening. The trees were loaded with the red and yellow peaches, the largest ever seen, and as far as the eye could see was one continuous cluster of fruit, which made the most beautiful picture the eyes ever beheld.

Every few hundred yards was a crew of hands picking, packing in boxes, and teams were hauling them to the depot where they were being loaded into a large palace express fruit car for shipment.

About noon the party reached the farmhouse, which is situated on a slight elevation and surrounded with a four acre lawn dotted with beautiful grass, fringed with lovely flowers of every hue, and shaded with a number of stately forest trees with rich, dense foliage, from which were suspended swings and hammocks, and Mrs. Henry Day, the kind-hearted and affable lady who presides over the farmhouse filled the shaded lawn with easy chairs and rockers, and bade us welcome. A picnic dinner was then spread, consisting of every good thing known to the palate of man and a grand feast ensued.

The ladies having seen enough of the farm to satisfy them, the afternoon was spent by them in games, music, and swinging in the beautiful shady lawn, while the masculine portion of the party strolled over hundreds of acres of fruit and drank in the beautiful scenery.

Mr. Gano, the superintendent, was found in the afternoon, and put through a series of questions by the "Index" reporter. From him it was learned that the Olden Fruit Company now have invested there a little over eight thousand dollars. They have twenty-six hundred acres of land in one square body, eight hundred acres of which are now planted in fruit. They have sixty-five thousand peach trees, about twenty-five thousand of which are bearing this season. About thirty thousand more will come into bearing next year, and nearly fifteen thousand of the apple trees will also come into bearing next year. They have now all told about one hundred and ninety thousand trees, and forty acres of berries.

They began shipping peaches this season, on the 20th of June. On the 20th of July they began shipping by the car load, since nearly every day they have shipped a car; nearly every day of the week except Saturdays, and will continue to do so until the last of September or October. They put from seven to twelve hundred boxes in a car. The price yielded them this season, so far, has been from $1.20 to $4.00 per bushel. They shipped this season also, one thousand five hundred crates of berries. They will continue to plant each fall and spring, until the entire twenty-six hundred acres are planted. Two other farms are clearing and planting large farms adjoining them. Their fruit is the finest and sells more readily at fancy prices than any fruit put upon the market. California fruits stand a poor show in the market when South Missouri fruit can be obtained.
